INTRODUCTION.

THE volume now completed, being the fourth of Chancery Proceedings temp. Charles I, and forming the fourteenth of THE INDEX LIBRARY, brings the Calendar of these numerous documents to a close as far as concerns the four manuscript volumes at the Public Record Office, known as Topham's Index, which cover the period indicated.

Reference was made in the first volume of this present series to the immense aid which Proceedings in Chancery afford to the genealogist and historical student, but besides the references there given to articles on this subject, further interesting information will be found in that most useful official handbook entitled "A Guide to the Public Records," published in 1891, by Mr. S. R. Scargill-Bird, F.S.A., Assistant-Keeper of the Public Records.

It may be urged that, having printed the Calendar of Plaintiffs in alphabetical, though not lexicographical order, THE BRITISH RECORD SOCIETY should complete the work by issuing an index to the Defendants in similar alphabetical order, whose names are of no less interest to searchers than are those of the Plaintiffs.

While fully admitting the utility such an index would have, the Council urges that having printed the Calendars, Subscribers are now in a position to do the searching necessary at their own homes, instead of, as heretofore, wasting valuable time at the Public Record Office. The Council therefore considers that, since ~~the~~ rearrangement and printing the list of Defendants in index form would be a very costly undertaking, the Subscribers' money will be better spent in publishing other Calendars which are still in manuscript.

The Council is arranging to proceed with the issue of other Calendars relating to Chancery Proceedings, and hopes before long to commence printing either Topham's Calendars for the reigns of Elizabeth and James I, or the very important Calendars of Pleadings and Depositions known as the "Six Clerks' Books," of which the first series consist of thirty-three volumes, and cover the period 1649 to 1714.

PREFACE.

THERE is probably no class of record which can compare with inquisitiones post mortem, whether we regard them from a genealogical or topographical standpoint. Without reference to them it is quite impossible to write trustworthy local history for the period before the days of the great rebellion. They form, in fact, the ground-work for the history of all landed property which happened to be held "in chief." To the students of London history they are, indeed, of the highest value, and we have, therefore, determined to take our readers to the very sources of our local history, and to print these records so fully that it will be unnecessary for them to trouble to consult the originals, which are now deposited in the Public Record Office. Every scrap of information will be preserved, and these abstracts will, to all practical purposes, be the inquisitions themselves, shorn of all legal verbiage.

We propose commencing with the reign of King Henry VII., and to proceed with subsequent reigns in chronological order, until the termination of this series of records in 1645, in consequence of the abolition of the tenure of knight service.

It may be well to give the reader some particulars respecting these inquisitions or inquests. It must be remembered that they are quite distinct from the inquests which are still taken by the coroner in order to ascertain the cause of death. They were concerned solely with the property held by the deceased, and were required for the purpose of determining the feudal rights which accrued to the Crown upon the death of any tenant in chief. Until the practical abolition of the service of knight serjeanty, in 1645—it was not formally abolished until the accession of King Charles II., in 1660—the Crown was entitled, at the death of each feudal tenant in chief, to levy certain feudal dues, into the particulars of which, however, it is unnecessary here to enter. If the heir-at-law happened to be a minor he became a ward of the Crown. This was a source of profit, for the wardship was frequently sold for hard cash, since it was a privilege of considerable value, meaning the right not only to receive the rents and profits, but also the right to find a spouse for the youthful heir. When the heir-at-law attained his majority, then he became the subject of further feudal exactions, for on suing out his ousterlemain, that is, livery of his lands by the Crown, he had to pay certain dues, and bring forward strict proof that he had attained his full age of twenty-one years. Amongst the inquisitiones post mortem are still to be found some few of these inquests for proof of age, probatio etatis, which are usually very interesting documents, on account of the evidence of the witnesses who were examined in order to show how they knew that the heir was of age. They include some inquiries taken virtute officii, and others ad quod damnum, besides inquests as to the property of lunatics and idiots. These we shall also include.

The proceedings following on the death of anyone who was supposed to be a tenant in chief were as follows: A writ, termed the writ of diem clausit extremum, which was a medieval Latin synonym for obit, was issued out of the Court of Chancery; this was directed usually to the escheator or feodary of the county in which the deceased was presumed to have been possessed of lands. It commanded him to hold an inquest and to summon a jury for the purpose. The inquiry thus held was upon the following points:

1. Of what lands the deceased died possessed.
2. Of whom and by what services the same were held.
3. The date of his death.
4. The name and age of the heir-at-law.

In pursuance of the direction contained in the writ, the escheator or feodary summoned a jury of the county, who accordingly rendered their verdict upon their oath; this was engrossed upon parchment, and in due course delivered up into the Court of Chancery, and there duly filed. In the course of the inquest the dealings that the deceased had had with his property came under review, and this necessitated inquiries into family settlements and trusts affecting it, and consequently we often find such documents, including the deceased's will, are recited at length, thus affording us information of the highest value to the genealogist.

The officials in the Chancery in due course forwarded a copy of the inquisition into the King's Exchequer, in order that the officers there might collect the accruing feudal dues. Occasionally the jury made an insufficient or inaccurate return, and then a further writ, known as the writ ad melius inquirendum, was directed to the escheator, requiring him to hold a second inquest for better inquiring as to the facts omitted. Sometimes this process had to be repeated a second or third time.

In the reign of Henry VIII, in consequence of the alleged extortions on the part of the Crown officials, and the practice which had grown up of compelling landowners who were not tenants in capite to sue out their ousterlemain, the Court of Wards and Liveries was created, with the sole object of attending to the business arising from these inquisitions. To this Court also were sent transcripts of the inquisitiones post mortem. Consequently, until the thirty-fifth year of Henry VIII. there are two sets of inquisitions, the original returns, known as the Chancery series, and the transcripts, or the Exchequer series. After that date must be added a third, the Wards and Liveries series. The existence of these two series of transcripts is a fortunate circumstance, for frequently they enable us to make good the deficiencies in the Chancery series.

The abstracts, of which we now print the first instalment, are taken from the Chancery series, supplemented where needful by reference to the transcripts. An ancient calendar of the inquisitiones post mortem, from the period of Henry VII. to Charles I., labelled "Escheats," may be found in the "legal" search-room at the Public Record Office. All the entries relating to the county of Middlesex and City of London were lately extracted and printed in pamphlet form under the editorship of the present writer. They number upwards of two thousand. As these records are in Latin, often not very easy to decipher, the advantage of readable abstracts in English is evident.

Inq. p. m. 10 Henry VII [12 Edward IV], No. 21.

The preceding inquisition is not one of those post-mortem, but in the absence of the writ, in virtue of which it was taken, it is impossible to say what may have been its object. It may have been that the property of Henry Astell, on account of criminal proceedings, had become forfeited to the Crown. Although taken in the reign of Edward IV., it is recorded amongst those of Henry VII., and for that reason is printed here, although in strictness it appears somewhat out of place.

Elizabeth, Wife of George Guldeford, and Daughter and Heir of Robert Morymer.

Proof of age taken at the Guildhall, 11 February, 13 Henry VIII [1522], before John Mylbourne, Mayor and escheator, by the oath of Thomas Abraham, junior, Thomas Marbury,

John Smyth, haberdasher, William Marland, John Walshe, James Stirley, William Appys, Robert Colyar, John Duffeld, Richard Rawlyns, John Warren, and Thomas Lynton, who say that

Elizabeth, wife of George Guldeford, and daughter and heir of Robert Mortymer, is of the full age of 20 years and more. The said Elizabeth, and the Elizabeth whose wardship and marriage King Henry VII by letters patent dated 31 October in the 2nd year of his reign, granted to his faithful counsellor, Richard Guldeford, knight, are one and the same person.

Master Thomas Larke of Westminster, clerk, one of the prebendaries of the Royal Free Chapel of St. Stephen's, Westminster, aged 66 years and more, John Hales of Canterbury, esq., Attorney-General for the Duchy of Lancaster, aged 50 years and more, William Deryng of Glyndam in the county of Sussex, esq., aged 52 years and more, George Mercer of Hawkeherst in the county of Kent, gent., aged 56 years and more, John Tyrell of the King's Household, aged 46 years and more, Richard Benden of the King's Household, aged 58 years and more, Peter Veldon of Westminster, yeoman, servant of the said Thomas Larke, aged 50 years and more, and Thomas Small, servant of Henry Guldeford, knight, Comptroller of the King's Household, aged 50 years and more, appeared to testify to the age of the said Elizabeth.

The said Master Thomas Larke affirms that in the 11th year of King Henry VII he was chaplain to the said Richard Guldeford, knight, and that in the same year during his illness, which lasted several months, he had a room in the house of the said Sir Richard at Halden in the parish of Rolvenden in the county of Kent, where the said Elizabeth was then living. Before that year she was married to the said George Guldeford, son of the said Sir Richard. Deponent used to converse with her every day sitting at table and elsewhere, and well knew that she was then aged 16 years and more. He has read the said letters patent dated 31 December [sic], 2 Henry VII.

John Hales deposes that on the feast of St. Margaret the Virgin, 16 Henry VII, he held a court at the manor of Great Bromley in the county of Essex, which manor was late of the said Robert Mortimer, and is now the inheritance of the said Elizabeth, and that the said George and Elizabeth with the assent of the said Richard Guldeford, in whose wardship the said manor then remained, took the issues and profits of the said court. Therefore the said John Hales knows that the said Elizabeth is now 20 years and more. William Deryng says that he was in the service of Sir Richard Guldeford in the 9th year of Henry VII, and that the said Sir Richard gave him the custody of the park at Halden, which he retained until after the battle of Blackheath, 12 Henry VII, to which battle he rode with his said master. During all the said time, and before he entered into the said service, the said Elizabeth was in the house of the said Sir Richard at Halden, and was married to the said George Guldeford.

George Mercer says that in the 8th year of Henry VII he was servant to John Guldeford, knight, father of the said Sir Richard, and attended upon him as his clerk. The said Sir John died in the said year, and was buried in the nave of Christ's Church, Canterbury, on the feast of St. Margaret the Virgin. The said Elizabeth was married to the said George Guldeford before the death of the said Sir John.

James Tyrell affirms that in the 12th year of Henry VII he was servant to the said Sir Richard Guldeford, Comptroller of the King's Household, and rode with him to the battle of Blackheath. He well knows that the said Elizabeth is aged 20 years and more.

Richard Benden deposes that in 11 Henry VII he was in the service of the said Sir Richard Guldeford, attending upon the gentlemen who were then in the house of the said Sir Richard at Halden, at which time the said Elizabeth was married. About the end of the said 11th year deponent left the service of the said Sir Richard for that of his son Henry Guldeford, now called Sir Henry Guldeford, knight, who was then servant of the King that now is, then being Duke of York.

Peter Velden says that in 12 Henry VII he was servant to the said Sir Richard Guldeford, the said Elizabeth being then 16 years old and more.

Thomas Griffyn, on the Sunday next before the feast of the Nativity of Our Lord, 9 Henry VIII [1517] was of the full age of 21 years because they say that he was born on the said Sunday, 12 Henry VII [1496], and was baptized in the Church of the said parish, at which time they lived in the said parish. John Hoxson, gent., aged 70 years and more, affirmed to the said escheator and jurors that the said Thomas was born on the said Sunday 21 years ago: this he knows because he lived in Salysbury aley in the said parish near the house of John Thornbourgh, gent., in which house the said Thomas was born, to wit, in a room there next adjoining the room of the said John Hexson, who at the time of the birth of the said Thomas prayed to Christ for the well-being (bona expedicio) of the lady Alice, his mother. Joan Basse, wife of William Basse, swore to the said escheator that the said Thomas is aged 21 years and more, and that he was born on the said Sunday, because 6 days before he was born she gave birth to a son called John Basse, who, if he had lived, would now have been 21 years old. John Smyth, skinner, aged 60 years, and Richard Clerk, hosier, aged 56 years, saw the said Thomas baptized in the said Church. The said Richard Clerk deposes that he made a pair of hose (caligarū) for the said Nicholas, father of the said Thomas, for the purification of the said lady Alice, mother of the said Thomas.
